

Boarding Policy Incorporating Statement of Boarding Principles and Practice

Aim

Boarding at The Mount School York empowers each girl to fulfil her potential - academically, socially, emotionally and spiritually. We aim to provide a home from home experience in which girls can flourish in a safe and caring environment.

Overview

Our Boarding House is organised vertically, which is for girls aged 11-18. The first floor is for Year 7 to Year 11 girls, and the second floor is for College girls. Girls are spaciously accommodated in shared bedrooms for 2, 3 and 4 girls, and rooming is changed to promote intermixing and the development of friendships. Girls are consulted when rooms are changed but any changes are made at the discretion of the Head of Boarding. The House is structured to provide a nurturing environment in which every girl can grow and discover who she is.

The House has an experienced and qualified team of residential and non-residential staff, who work in partnership with parents and liaise closely with academic staff. There are four members of staff who reside in the Boarding House overnight to provide cover as well as an emergency duty phone contact number. House staff are a mixture of qualified teachers and support staff who provide both academic and pastoral support for the girls in our care.

Ethos and Statement of Boarding Principles

At the heart of our boarding community are the strong guiding principles of the Quaker ethos, upon which our School is founded. Every girl is encouraged to:

Think and live adventurously. Through robust challenge girls develop the ability to question, debate, try new pursuits and take positive risks. Activities are offered which provide the opportunity for girls to push themselves in a supportive and collaborative boarding community.

Respect and value every individual. To embrace difference and cultural diversity, and to have the courage to be unique is a tenet of boarding life. Girls celebrate and take part in key religious festivals, including Ramadan and Chinese New Year, as well as Christian festivals, whether actively or through supporting their friends at these times.

Freedom for everyone to flourish in a calm and caring community. Boarders meet weekly on Sundays for Morning Meeting, which is a time to reflect privately and grow spiritually in a gathered silence, characteristic of our Quaker ethos. Girls take pride in their shared responsibilities for the governance of the boarding community, and are empathetic towards the needs of others.

Strive for personal excellence. Girls are aspirational and take ownership of their study and free time, within a supportive academic environment. Boarders have access to all school facilities in our extensive grounds, and are motivated to work hard and stretch and challenge themselves.

Make a positive contribution to our changing world. Girls are encouraged to take responsibility in all aspects of life in the House, from recycling in Year 7 to running House meetings in College. Many girls volunteer for local charities and services. Starting small, boarders gain the skills and confidence needed to make a genuine difference to their world, and to take their place as the next generation of global thinkers.

Overseas Pupils

The Mount School has a number of boarders from a variety of countries. This diversity of languages and cultures gives the student body an international flavour, enriching the School experience for all pupils. Some are British children of parents working abroad, while we also have a number of pupils for whom English is not their first language. Our aim is to maintain a healthy balance and mix of cultures for the continued benefit of all. In addition to permanent, full-time boarders, as well as weekly and flexi-boarders, each year we accept a number of visitors, usually girls from Europe who stay for a short period of time e.g. one term to experience life in a British boarding school and to improve their use of English.

All overseas students are required to have an educational guardian in this country. Guardians are appointed by the parents and are expected to accommodate the girls should the School not be able to do so for any reason. This includes Exeat Weekends and School holidays, illness, suspension, and in the unlikely event of the School being closed in an emergency. For further information please read the Guardianship Policy.

The English as a Foreign Language (EFL) Department embraces all overseas students from a wide variety of countries. We aim to provide teaching and support to ensure that all foreign students are fully integrated into the School. In School and Boarding, girls are encouraged to speak English in common areas, and with others to ensure that they have every opportunity to develop their verbal skills. Those in the UK for the whole or final part of their education aim to take GCSE and A Level examinations, in addition to the EFL examinations. Those visiting the School for one year or part of a year aim to improve their English. Visitors attend lessons with their year group, and the girls are encouraged to join in as many co-curricular activities as possible.

Student Voice

Student voice is important and valued by students and staff alike. Boarders can communicate their thoughts and wishes in a number of ways. These include the Boarding Council, suggestion boxes, one-to-one meetings with House staff and via the College Boarding House Leader.

Behaviour

Positive behaviour is promoted in the House and boarders are encouraged to be positive role models for each other. The Boarding House follows the School's Behaviour Policy when dealing with rewards and sanctions. Any sanctions given by Boarding are recorded in the sanctions book which is held in the duty office. Major sanctions are recorded and held centrally by the Principal.

Communication

The Head of Boarding and Housemistresses use email as a primary method of communication with parents, guardians and carers. House staff have school email addresses so they can be contacted and parents are given the whole boarding team email so they can communicate generic messages such as permissions for trips. Emails containing sensitive and confidential information are recommended to be sent directly to Head of Boarding and/or Housemistresses as appropriate.

Communication with day staff is done via Key Communications forms and in staff meetings where issues are raised and discussed when appropriate.

Boarding staff attend a weekly house staff meeting to discuss current issues as well as one-to-one meetings. The use of the boarding diary is used to communicate generic issues such as permission to attend a trip or to give a general overview of how things have been in the house during an evening.

When boarders arrive, they are given a Boarding Handbook which outlines the expectations, rules and general information of the House. A Parent Handbook is also sent to parents so they are aware of expectations and of how the House operates.

Child Protection

Child protection and Safeguarding are of paramount importance in our Boarding setting. Boarding staff all take part in regular safeguarding updates and work closely with the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL). Any concerns are reported to the DSL.

The Boarding House follows the School Safeguarding Policy which should be read in conjunction with this policy.

Boarders have access to an Independent Listener, someone suitably separate from the School but still subject to DBS and safer recruitment checks. The purpose of the Independent Listener is for Boarders to be able to speak with someone independent of the School and if necessary raise any concerns that they have and feel are not being listened to. The Independent Listener can be contacted via email, which is displayed on posters throughout the Boarding House.

Complaints

Whilst complaints are rare, there may be times that boarders wish to discuss a concern that they have. This can be brought to Boarding staff in the first instance and will usually be resolved then and there. If this is not resolved, this can then be brought to the attention of the Head of Boarding.

If there is still cause for concern or if the complaint is about Boarding staff, this can be brought to the Deputy Head and the Principal. A copy of the complaints procedure is displayed in House and is also in the Boarding Handbook.

Search, Screening and Confiscation

The Boarding House follows the DfE guidelines for searching, screening and confiscation and this is outlined in the School's Search, Screening and Confiscation Policy, which should be read in conjunction with this policy.
